

Figure 1 Temperature variations observed along the Grande Ronde River between 06/19/07 and 06/26/07 plotted against river mile. The measurements at the tributaries and along the mainstem Grande Ronde were taken at approximately the same time of day and thus are subject to the same diurnal variations. Thus this plot is most useful for determining the influence that each tributary has on the mainstem.